Member Highlight

We will be highlighting a different member each week to share "what it means to be a member of FACC" for that person.

Today, enjoy reading about Deputy City Clerk Shayla S. Ellis, City of Lake Worth Beach.

One of the highlights of working within the local municipal government is my involvement with the FACC. The community of members whose knowledge and previous experiences I can draw upon has been an asset as I continue my journey in the City Clerk field. Read More

Improving the Lives of Those in the Municipality

By Trae Scism, Client Executive, Kofile

In government, there are a wide array of processes that can be digitized to improve the lives of those in the municipality. To account for the range of use cases, digital government solutions must be intuitive and scalable. No matter how simple or complex, it is important to bring processes online quickly, without requiring more resources or additional bandwidth, to every level of government.

Local governments are the engine that drive true change in citizens' lives. New solutions to everyday challenges can have an immediate impact on quality of life and revenue generated for the municipality.

Creating statewide standards for digital innovation requires forward-thinking and collaboration. When finding your solution, find one which works with state level agencies across the country to think big picture and develop best-in-class processes that can be scaled and duplicated across departments.

Digital solutions should be built on a legacy of helping governments at every level to serve their constituents and businesses. Each digital solution should be built to solve a specific challenge and make it easy for governments to digitize and transform how they do business.
